PASTORS CORNER

Hab. 2:14, Dan 11:32

Many ministries and ministerial effort do not yield result as compare to the effort put in. Several reasons could account for this. One of the reasons could be failure in ministering within context. The context of a congregation includes age, status, language of the congregant, language of the community where the church is located, and some other cultures of the community. The context of a church will determine the contents of the christian education to be given to the members. In order words, the guidance of the Holy Spirit within the context of practise should inform the ministering styles.

Knowing fully well, that we are living in a global and fast- changing world. There is an increasing challenge of how we can effectively minister to the younger generation in our days such that, they become God's agents of change in these perverse world. The world is no longer the same and thus, for the purpose of effectiveness and efficiency, church ministry cannot afford to remain the same. Today, there is an increasing need for strategic and specialised ministry to reach out to the younger generation. Hence, the need to engage in this discovery as a way out of challenges and contributions of Information Technology in respect to faith and daily living.
